Janesville Man Loses Hundreds of Dollars
"I am sorry I did not hear of May's Wonderful Remedy a few years ago, as it would have saved me several hundred dollars. Five years I suffered from indigestion and severe bloating. I grew worse all the time. My doctor said an operation would be all that could save me. I took a course of May's Wonderful Remedy instead and for the past year have been entirely well." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. J. P. Baker, druggist.

VASSAR TEACHER HOPES GERMANS WIN

Miss Agathe Wilhelmina Richrath, an instructor in German at Vassar College, who has been arrested by agents of the department of justice on the suspicion of having been active in an aggressive organization of German propagandists which operated in the Hudson River Valley with Poughkeepsie as its center, has admitted that she wants to see Germany win the war.

HUGE SUM IS TO BE RAISED BY THRIFT STAMP SALE IN CITY

Will Raise $20,000 Every Month For Seven Months As Janesville Quota Of Billion Dollar Drive

With the Liberty Loan over, comes the call of the secretary of the treasury, Wm. G. McAdoo, for one billion dollars in thrift stamps, within the next seven months, according to the information from Postmaster J. J. Cunningham, who has charge of the Thrift Stamp sale in this district. One billion a month for the United States means $20,000 for Janesville alone, or $20,000 sale of thrift stamps every month. Half of this amount will be raised by the post-office, and the other half will be contributed by War Savings Societies. The clerical help in the post-office rural mail carriers, club mail carriers, and mail carriers, and any one connected with the post-office will push the sales of their half of the quota, while the other half will be raised by the War Savings Societies, which are now being organized by Postmaster Cunningham in factories, schools, churches and club-houses. War Savings Societies have been started in the schools for the past four months, and have already made a creditable showing, which is now being tabulated by the post-office. The postmaster called attention to the fact that the public should be made to make this additional loan to the government a success, and that the thrift stamps may be small sums in themselves, but taken in the aggregate, they are a tremendous aid to the country. A single strand in the cables which uphold the Brooklyn suspension bridge is not very strong, but the thousands of strands bound together uphold one of the great thoroughfares of the world, and thus it is with the thrift stamps.

The purpose of the War Savings Societies is to awaken among the men, women and children of America, that in their hands lies the key to the successful prosecution of the war; that the support of the war effort is a patriotic service through refraining from the purchase of unnecessary for health and efficiency, thus releasing labor and material for the support of the arm in the field; that there is not enough labor in the United States to produce the great variety of articles needed to support the war effort, and that the savings provided all the comforts and luxuries we enjoyed before the war.

To lay the foundation for thrift and economy throughout the United States, and to bring home to the people, the fact that intelligent and constant saving is not a dry, economic problem, but it is the most vital step toward personal success.

To obtain for the government, a large amount of money through the sale of thrift stamps and war savings stamps, and at the same time, to give a method by which the small investor may put his savings at the immediate service of his country. Members of the War Savings Societies pledge themselves to support the government by refraining from the unnecessary expenditures by systematic saving and by obtaining new members. Information relative to the organization of a society can be had from the postmaster.

The standings of the various cities and towns in the Thrift Stamp sale for the week ending May 4, 1918, to the postmaster, with the exception of Janesville, which is not up to the standard at present. The status of this district is as follows:

MEMORIAL DAY WILL BE OBSERVED HERE

Parade and Exercises Will Be Held During the Afternoon. Graves Will Be Decorated in the Morning.

W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, G. A. R. and Harry Gifford Camp No. 23, Spanish War Veterans and their auxiliary societies have appointed committees to arrange for the observance of Memorial Day.

In the morning these societies will decorate the graves of the soldiers buried in Oak Hill and Mt. Olive cemeteries. No public demonstration will be made in connection with this service. In the afternoon the committee desires that the public join in an observance of the day. The mayor has been engaged for the afternoon exercises. An invitation is extended to all military, fraternal and civic organizations to join in the parade at the highway committee's headquarters at the Opera House. All of the societies who are going to enter the parade are requested to notify C. H. Cox, secretary of the committee, of the formation and date of march will be given later. The program will be announced later.

BRIDGE ON JACKSON STREET IS CLOSED

Highway Committee Investigates Condition of Structure and Orders Bridge Closed to All Traffic. Will Remain Closed Indefinitely.

Owing to the many complaints that have been received by the mayor in the past few weeks an investigation of the condition of the Jackson street bridge was made by the highway committee yesterday afternoon. On the completion of the investigation the bridge was ordered closed and will remain closed to all traffic indefinitely. Both approaches to the bridge were found to be in very poor shape and the pilings were so loose under the bridge that they could be pushed around by the hand. The timber was in very poor condition in all parts of the bridge and the members of the highway committee are of the opinion that it will be necessary to keep the bridge closed until a new one is erected.

J. F. MURPHY SENT TO CAMP GRANT YESTERDAY
J. F. Murphy of this city was sent to Camp Grant, yesterday, where he will be confined for the remainder of his term. Murphy was registered in Iowa last June, and his board sent orders to the local board, to send him to camp direct from this city, rather than have him report to his board in Iowa, to be sent.

"DEVIL DOGS" OR THE "MILLIONAIRE SOLDIERS"

United States marines in France are rapidly acquiring new sobriquets. The Germans, terrorized by their manifold fighting prowess, have dubbed these Americans "Devil Dogs." But the French who have come in contact with the marines refer to them as the "millionaire soldiers," due to the fact that marines are constantly dividing their pay with the French women and children who need them. In many instances marines have been known to give up their entire month's pay to purchase food for destitute French families. And the marines are proud of both titles. Meeting of Loan Band: The regular meeting of the Loan Band will be held on next Tuesday evening, May 14th, at the Congregational Church. Subject will be served at 6:30 o'clock under the direction of the hostesses, Mrs. Arthur Bauman and Mrs. Chas. Pascoe. The speaker of the evening will be Miss Mary B. Cline, now in Chicago, but a returned missionary from Turkey. Mrs. H. V. Cunningham will lead the devotional exercises.

On sale at St. Joseph's Convent, identification cards and pocket folders for soldiers and sailors. Also numerous religious articles.

Gulls in the Hancock.
A curious custom of the Newfoundland fishermen is that of keeping sea-gulls of a large species as domestic fowls. They capture the young while they are nestlings, and rear them on fish, confining them in pens. Their eggs are eaten, and, for lack of a turkey or goose for Christmas, the fishermen is satisfied with a selection from his coop of fattened gulls.

LOOK FOR AUSTRIAN ATTACK ON ITALY BEFORE KAISER ENDS DRIVE IN WEST

Military experts warn that the Austrians probably will launch a big drive against Italy before the end of the great battle which Hindenburg is staging in the west. The Austrians now have sixty divisions facing the Italians on the Piave and in the Trentino.

Don't Let Catarrh Drag You into Consumption

Avoid Its Dangerous Stage.
There is a more serious stage of Catarrh than the annoyances caused by the stopped-up air passages, and the hacking and spitting and other distasteful features. The real danger comes from the tendency of the disease to continue its course downward until the lungs become affected, and then dreaded consumption is on your path. Your own experience has taught you that the disease cannot be cured by sprays, inhalers, atomizers, jellies and other local applications. S. S. S. has proven a most satisfactory remedy for Catarrh because it goes direct to its source, and moves the germs of the disease from the blood. Get a bottle from your druggist today, and begin the logical treatment that gives results. You can obtain special medical advice without charge by writing Medical Director, 27 Swift 10ry, Atlanta Georgia.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Of course the average citizen does not yet fully understand just what the new Chamber of Commerce proposes to accomplish, but when you dig down deep into the ideas these gentlemen are seeking to inculcate into your minds you will find they really have something so absolutely concrete that it meets every condition and need of a community similar to Janesville. We have had various useful organizations in our past, but none that have been supported and perhaps misunderstood by many, but working for the betterment of the city, yet they did not include all the scope that the proposed Chamber of Commerce would cover. The organization of such a body would mean much for the future of the city. Just at this time, when we are in the midst of a great war, the Chamber of Commerce will not be filled by a miracle. The scarcity of labor, caused by the calling into service of hundreds of our young men, can not be replaced by any one organization, but we can prepare for the future and the community that takes time by the forelock and changes on is going to be better prepared to meet the after war prosperity when we want the "Huns" than the community that fails to grasp the opportunity. The gentlemen who are exploiting the new Chamber of Commerce seek everyone. No class is barred. No occupation is deprived of membership and everyone is a member who subscribes and has a section of the management and selection of the who will not act as their proxies. After experimenting the Chamber of Commerce idea appears the best thus far presented, and citizens should investigate the project carefully before making any adverse decision as regards its benefits.

RUSHING WORK.

Announcement from France that the French and British and Belgians can hold the line for the time being against the "Huns," but that the United States must hurry, and in reply to this Secretary of War Baker makes the official statement that since the war began a half million United States soldiers have landed on European shores. He does not say how many more and is a safe estimate of the number is considerable in view of the figures he made public. But even then other authorities state that the United States must put three million men under arms in France, to take the place of Russia before we can begin to hope to win the war. This means more strenuous training, more deaths and more soldiers at harder work for those left behind at home. It means that every cantonment, every training camp and every fort in the United States is to be utilized to its fullest capacity for the next year or so to come. That every munition plant is to be pushed to its maximum output, and still there will be a deficit unless some radical steps are taken to make material improvements in business arrangements. It takes money, men, food and ships to win this war, but not one of the various component elements must be sacrificed for the others. We have finished the Liberty Loan and the results have been most wonderful. Our crop reports show that we are under better conditions, our men are responding to the call of the government as rapidly as the government is ready to take care of them, and we are turning out ships with wonderful rapidity, so it may not be such a long period after all before we have our three million trained men in Europe and taking their part in the war.

TIME TO JOIN UP.

It is time to join up for that State Guard Reserve. Time for the men who are subject for the next draft or two to receive some preliminary training in the school of the soldier, and the opportunity is offered each Monday night at the Armory of Company G of the 8th Wisconsin State Guard. The drills start at eight and last an hour and a half. The first two hours, and those who take part assert it is beneficial. Try it once and if beyond the age of forty-five enlist in the State Guard Reserve and become an asset to the state as a "Home Guard." These subject to draft will find instructors ready to give them the "first aid to the injured," to equip them for the life of the soldier, they will soon enter upon. All are welcome and the armory is large enough to accommodate many more than have thus far afforded themselves of the opportunity for military instruction.

WAR GARDENS.

Now the time has come for the war gardens and they are coming into their own. One can see the trees budding into bud over night and as for the seeds planted in the ground they seem to grow by magic, and even in a few hours satisfy the most ambitious of the "war gardeners." Good weather from now on will witness many now gardens started and the crop results will be materially larger. Be a war gardener and have a war garden.

If any pacifist member of the Janesville City Council or the Janesville School Board who does not believe in military training cares to drop into the armory of Company G of the 8th W. S. G., any Thursday evening or watch the volunteer high school cadets on the street drilling, they will appreciate what Young America, without any thanks to the taxpayers of the city, are doing to prepare themselves for the universal military training that is bound to come. The drills are held under the auspices of Company G, and at the expense of the members who are glad to do their share. The boys have bought their own uniforms at personal sacrifice. Think it over?

We have the N. S. W. A. to see that our soldier boys march away with true honor and respect equipped with all needs, but why not organize a drum corps to aid in furnishing music for their departure? There is nothing more inspiring than the drum and fire or the drum and bugle. Other communities may think of this first, why not Janesville?

"Over across." That is the destination of every man who has enlisted or been called into the government service. They are anxious to do their share and present indications are they all will have the opportunity to do so before we conquer those Huns. Rock county is well represented now by the boys who have actually landed and those who are ready and willing to go.

Even though the high water does continue there are some willows planted south of the Milwaukee street bridge that will be handsome additions and in time be appreciated by the average citizen.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

BY E. K. MCGILVER

MAKING THE GARDEN.

He reads that every man should have a garden.
He decides that he will have one.
He goes out and surveys the back yard.
He hires a man to plow it up.
He says he will do the raking himself.
He takes industriously for a half hour.
Next day he spades and rakes for fifteen minutes.
Next day he works for five minutes.
Next day he looks out of the kitchen window.
To see if his garden is still there.
Next day he forgets all about the garden.
His wife does not forget about the garden.
He buys her a suit of these fetching, flannel overalls, advertised in magazines.
She works in the garden eight hours a day.
She spends $85 for tools and new overalls.
She buys all the fancy seeds she can find.
Then a frost comes and everything is ruined.
And the overalls are all worn out and shabby.
And everything has gone to the bow-wow.
And the boys are playing baseball in the back yard.
And vegetables at the store jump 50 per cent.
It's a sad world, no matter what you say.

OUR ADVENT-MINDED CONTEST.
How-za? I went into the barber shop this morning and the barber wrapped a newspaper around my neck and handed me a towel to read.
I put my fountain pen in my mouth, lit it and smoked about half of it before I discovered it was not one of my favorite six-cent war cigars. The odor was identical the same.—G. H. D.

FROM THE FRONT.

Somewhere in April. Private Billings went over the top this morning. He was known down by a German shell, stabbed five times, rolled off a trench parapet, run over by two tanks and dragged three miles by a runaway mule, but came back fresh and smiling.
Before enlisting he was a "stunt man" for a motion picture company back in the states. He says war is a child's play.
Our office in the city is located directly over a new jazz band cabaret, and we believe this new jazz band, which has been in operation only this week and has not yet been stopped by the police, is the loudest jazz band in captivity anywhere. It does not consist of slide trombones, cowbells, nine brass, wash boilers and sandpaper, but contains among other new improvements, a sawmill in full operation, a boiler explosion, a steam whistle taken from a fire tug, a collision between two railroad engines going at full speed, a seventy-mile German gun, a mess of wildcats with their tails pinched, a bell engine, a three-plinched, a bell and a fire is a lively stable.
After listening to this band for three weeks we don't think the band in France would hold many records for us. The band brings the war to our very doors.

When the baby murders get started on their way back to Berlin it is going to be a show worth watching. They will beat all pedestrian records in the past years.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest.
TOO GOOD A WORLD.
It's too good a world to be ruined by hate.
It's too good a world for the selfish to spoil.
I look at my children who swing on the gate.
I look at my neighbors come home from the field.
And I think of the joys that are mine, and I say
It is too good a world to be wrecked in dismay.
It is too good a world to be shackled by might.
It is too good a world for a tyrant to rule.
Here is laughter and love for the weary at night.
And men may be happy, whoever they are.
The folds of the flag hold us all while we live.
And each to his children his riches may give.

So long as the banner of freedom shall fly.
All men may rejoice as they go to their toil.
Wherever they will they may labor to buy.
For them and their own are the fruits of the soil.
Soul-free, they may venture with life and attain
God's heritage here and enjoy what they gain.

No chains mark the babe at his wonderful birth.
No whim of a tyrant belittles the man.
Who under Old Glory comes down to this earth.
May live out his life to the Almighty plan.
And this is God's gift that the despot would kill—
The right of your children to be what they will.

Jeweler Insane.

JANESVILLE SOLDIERS WRITE FROM FRANCE

Lieut. Fred Rau in Letter to Friend Tells of Work That Is Being Done in France—Expect to Get in Battle Soon.

Lieutenant Fred Rau of Company L, 125th Inf., has written a very interesting letter to a friend in this city telling of the different work that is being done in that country. In his letter Lieut. Rau states that the training period is nearly over and that they expect to get into the fight in a short time.

He also tells of the breaking up of the companies upon their arrival in France. He states that Captain Caldwell is no longer a member of the company, but he does not state where he has gone. His letter follows:

April 21st, 1918.
Dear Friend:
Well, I have been going to write to you for some time, in fact, ever since I landed in France, but something always turns up to interfere; but, oh, well, you know how it is. Now, the censor won't let me say much but I will try and get away with a little.

First of all, how are all the people in Janesville and now is the living back in God's country. How are all the boys at the club? Give them Pel-ton's and my regards.

First of all I will tell you about the trip across, but I suppose you have heard all about it before this. We had fine weather all the way across and as times it was most exciting, especially on one occasion, of which I can't tell you about, but it will make a very nice story when we are all together at the club.

This is quite a country and very beautiful where the Germans have not been, but the people are about as far advanced as we were when the Mylodon landed. One can never appreciate what a wonderful place this good old U. S. is until he has seen this country. The houses are all built of stone, and the people nearly all wear wooden shoes. The streets are very narrow and dirty, and as for sidewalks, well I don't think they know what they are. The people don't know what water is for. They don't drink it and it is a catch they don't wash in it. I was separated from the outfit for some time and traveled over a great deal of this country and I must say that some of the places are very beautiful and it is hard to realize that a few short miles from where I am one of the biggest battles the world has ever seen is being staged.

We are working awfully hard at the present time and have to keep on our toes at all times. The weather here is quite cool and damp at the present time. It rains about four days out of every six. There has been quite a number of changes since I left the states, but I cannot tell you about them.

It is awfully hard to get tobacco here. We can get all the French and English tobacco we want, but a fellow might just as well smoke dry leaves. The only thing we have for lights is candles. Other forms of lighting are out of question.

Well, I will ring off for this time, but will write again before long. Give all my friends my regards.

Lieut. F. Rau.

Mechanic William Hilt of Co. M, 125th Inf., has written from "Some-where in France" a letter in which he tells of losing Captain Caldwell and many of the other members of the company. He also states that they expect Captain Caldwell back. His letter follows:

April 14th, 1918.
Dear
I am writing to let you know that I have received your letter and that I am in the best of health. I received a letter from mother the other day telling me that Frank was still at Waco. I also got a box from home when it came and before Judge Maxwell, considering the distance which it came. I have not as yet received the box you said you had sent. I had a ride on the Great Northern and the cars are about as big as the cars on the Janesville street car system. We have a new captain now, but expect to have Captain Caldwell back before long. Will close for this time.

William J. Hilt.

MILK CASE ADJOURNED BY JUDGE TO MAY 17

An adjournment until May 17th at ten o'clock was taken in the case of A. M. Hull and Frank Maxwell versus Kee and Chapell Dairy company in the municipal court this morning. When it came before Judge Maxwell, Attorney Stanley Tallman has not as yet prepared his case sufficiently and asked that the adjournment be taken. This action was agreed to by Judge John J. Fisher for the defendant.

Before the case comes to trial Attorney Tallman will have all the available evidence possible to prove his case. He will also have the full amount for the milk delivered to the Kee and Chapell company during the months of March and April. Much interest is being shown by the producers in the outcome of the case.

STATE GUARDSMEN TO REPORT TONIGHT TO RECEIVE UNIFORMS

Delayed Freight Shipment Reaches
City—All Members of Active
Company to Report Tonight.

This evening at seven-thirty the new uniforms of the Wisconsin State Guard will be issued to members of the active company and the armory. Each member will receive a blouse, trousers, flannel shirt, cap, web belt and later a pair of regulation army shoes. As these uniforms have been made to measure of the members no alterations will be permitted and no member will be allowed to take his uniform from the hall.

The uniforms are olive drab. The tunics have a large collar and the state insignia. Breaches are army regulation and regulation side-lace canvas leggings are to be issued. Caps are regulation with the exception of a narrow green stripe under the crown. Green chevrons with straight bars instead of V-shaped bars replace the regulation chevrons worn by regular army, national guard and national army units. State instead of United States collar ornaments and buttons will be worn. Regulation shoes will be furnished shortly. Khaki shirts complete the equipment.

Arrives in France: Word has been received in this city of the safe arrival of Hector Bleasdale in France. He is a member of the headquarters company, 30th United States Infantry.

A Woman's Invention.
The machine that makes artificial comb foundation for beehives is the invention of Frances A. Dunham, who patented it in 1881. The ready-made comb of beeswax permits the bees to devote themselves entirely to filling the cells, increasing the output of honey.

Optimistic View.
There is more happiness in retirement than in ruling an empire.

Notice: Daughters of Isabella, the Daughters of Isabella of St. Patrick's church will go to Holy Communion on Sunday Morning at seven-thirty o'clock.

OBITUARY

Mrs. J. O. Hopkins.

This afternoon at two, the funeral of the late Mrs. J. O. Hopkins, who passed away on Wednesday afternoon, was held from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Burdick, 615 Prairie avenue. The services were conducted by the Christian Science society and the four pall-bearers were all grandsons of the deceased: G. L. Burdick, Stanley Crossman, Ray Hugh Waggoner. The remains were laid in their final resting place at Afton cemetery.

Born August 1, 1833 at Painesville, Ohio, and married on June 28th, 1851, to J. O. Hopkins. Susan Ann Hopkins has been a devout Christian and a loving mother. Four children, John W. Hopkins of Grainfield, Kas., Mrs. Jennie Perkins of Hutchinson, Kas., Mrs. T. T. Sprer and Mrs. C. C. Burdick of this city are left to mourn her loss. Her husband passed away the world beyond September 2, 1907, and other of her children have preceded her in death.

Mrs. Hopkins came to Janesville in May of 1889 and has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Burdick, since then. During her residence here she has made many warm friends and her loving disposition and Christian courage endeared her to all who came in contact with her. Her death came at the end of a long and useful life due to her advanced age.

Mrs. Harriet Young.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Harriet Young, who passed away Wednesday evening at the Mercy hospital, were held at three o'clock this afternoon from the Baptist church.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, May 10.—The annual banquet and ladies' night of the Men's club of the Congregational church was held at the church parlors last evening. The affair was well attended and proved to be one of the most enjoyable affairs ever held in the city. F. O. Holt presided as toastmaster in his usual, able and pleasing manner. After a very sumptuous dinner served by the ladies of the church, the program was opened by a musical selection by the Dickenson sisters. This was followed by a toast to the women by C. S. Farman, and was responded to by Mabel Shearer. Former Mayor J. M. Conway next responded, using as his topic "The Coming Year." Ester Nelson then gave a selection on the violin, accompanied on the piano by her sister, Dr. Meyers then gave a short talk and was followed by Miss Gile, who gave a reading. John Pearson, president of the club, talked, using as his subject, "Seventy-Six Years Young." Mr. Pearson has been a loyal supporter of the club, having been the president since its organization. The toastmaster then called on A. McIntosh and D. C. Gile, who gave short talks, which were well received. Mr. Holt then introduced Rev. Brandt with a glowing tribute for the magnificent work he has accomplished in the city during the past few years. He has been here, Rev. Brandt has been actually identified with every movement for the betterment of the city of Edgerton. It is due to his work that the Boy Scout organization has been a success. And the Congregational church is looking with keen regret to the time when Rev. Brandt will leave Edgerton to take up his work in Sheboygan. The meeting came to a close by the singing of America.

Mrs. C. Anderson and Miss Anna Rosen went to Madison today, where they attended a government war school for women.

Mrs. L. Turner and Mrs. E. Pringle departed for Montana during the week, where they will spend the summer.

Fred Jensen hired a small boy yesterday to take suit of clothes to the tailor. Fred intended going to the banquet last evening and wanted to spruce up a bit. When the boy failed to return the clothes at supper time Fred began to wonder. As he had paid for the delivery of the suit to the tailor in advance he began to look up the young man. To make a long story short the suit of clothes was finally located under the platform of the Pomeroy warehouse.

The Boy Scouts, composed of A. McIntosh, D. C. Gile, E. C. Rich, H. M. Raymond, P. M. Billingson, J. W. Menhall, E. A. Young and W. A. Morgan will meet with Rev. Brandt of the Boy Scout master at the office of the Credit association this evening to formulate plans for the Boy Scouts. Rev. Brandt has resigned as scout master and his work will be continued by the above committee.

Quite a number of local tobacco men were at Madison yesterday in attendance at a hearing of the railroad rate commission in regard to a raise in freight rates.

Eugene Flarity was a Bower City visitor yesterday.

Mrs. H. B. Knapp called at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. Christensen at Stoughton, today.

Miss L. Carpenter died at her home on West Fulton street yesterday afternoon after suffering a relapse from pleurisy pneumonia. Miss Carpenter was at the time of her death past

THIS WILL SHOW YOU HOW TO GET REAL RESULTS IN A SMALL BACKYARD GARDEN

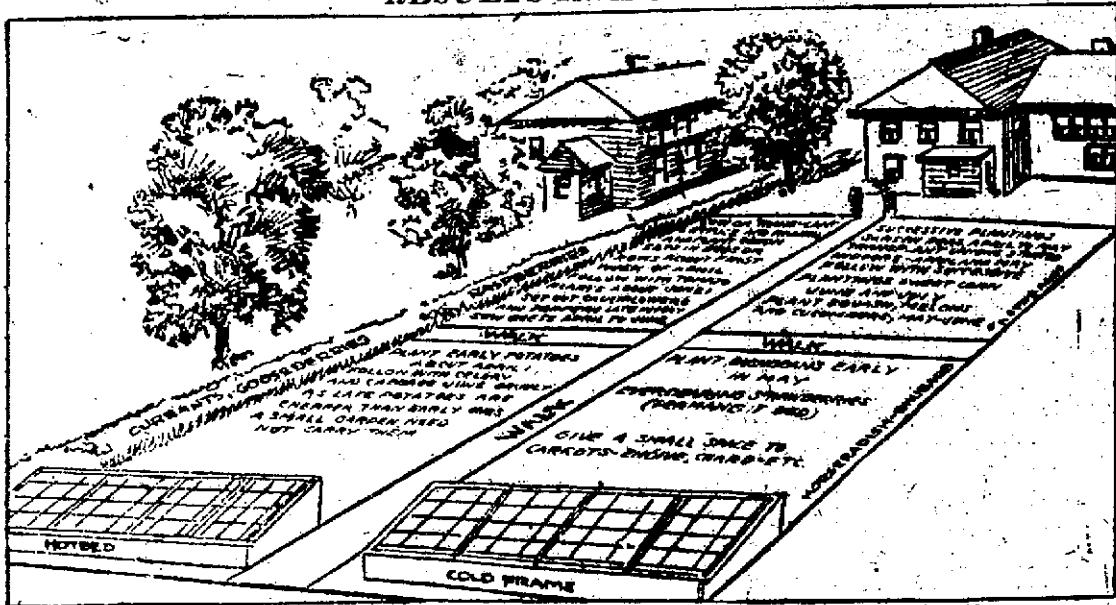

Diagram suggests how a small back lot may be converted into a productive patch.

Though the plan shown has been designed for a small garden of 25 by 30 feet, it is suitable for a much larger plot. The beds or rows may be lengthened or widened as required. The crops named and the space marked off in the diagram are merely suggestive and the gardener may do as he pleases in these matters. It should be remembered that while the proper start in the spring is vital the work in mid-summer and in the fall is also very important.

sixty-five years of age and is survived by a daughter, Melva and a sister, Mrs. Builes, who have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement. Funeral services will be held from the home Saturday afternoon at two o'clock and burial will be made at the cemetery at Albion Prairie.

DELINQUENT CHILD TAKEN TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Earl Olson, eleven years of age, charged with being a delinquent child, was taken to the industrial school at Waukegan yesterday afternoon by Under Sheriff Fred Seley. Young Olson confessed to the theft of $30 from the locker of Arthur J. Harris at the Country Club and to the house robbery, and was sentenced to the industrial school by Judge Maxfield.

Notable Sayings.

In William Dean Howells' novel, "The Quality of Mercy," the dying and repentant defaulter Northwick exclaims "That's good!" as the handcuffs are placed upon his wrists. "Time flies! Old Clifford come to me!" orders Judge Jaffrey Fyncheon in "The House of Seven Gables," taking from his vest pocket the watch which he was never to replace.

Best Persian Camels.

The best Persian camels are the powerful one-humped kind, which are bred in the province of Khorassan. This animal can carry a burden of 600 pounds at the rate of 20 miles a day. The ordinary Persian camel, however, will carry 400 pounds at the rate of 15 miles a day.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Gazette: It seems to me at this time when so much depends on the loyalty of every citizen, that something should be done more than is being done with our slackers. Because our state as a whole is loyal there are still some people who are far from being loyal.

We have been given some very good mottoes, such as "Pay or Fight," or "Your Share is Fair," and still there are people who do nothing but crawl out of everything. Our government is built on the foundation that every man was born free and equal. Now this being so no man is any better to fight than another, still this seems to be the case in the township where I live in, where there are families who have left no stones turned to keep their sons out of the army. Each has three or four sons in the draft age, and have not given a single son. Their first move was to buy more land. Then to be sure to keep them out of the war they sold each son a farm. Now to those who do not see through this deal and how it could be done, it might pass, but to my mind it is nothing but a rotten, yellow deal with nothing else in mind but to keep these slacker sons at home and some other young man must take their place. Is this fair or is it loyal?

About all these people are good for is to preach how we must raise more food and win the war. We all know that food is necessary, but it is a loophole for such people to crawl out of. They even went as far as to try to persuade people not to pay their share of the soldiers' fund, and still they are passing for loyal Americans, when they are just the opposite. Am hoping we will wake up, and that such people will not be allowed a place in our state. A CITIZEN.

TURKEY'S RULE IN ARABIA

Control by the Sultan is Only Nominal, Loose Sort of Tribal Government Prevailing.

The whole of the Turkish empire is divided into vilayets or governments which correspond somewhat to our states. The vilayets are subdivided into sanjaks or minor provinces, and these are divided into kazas, or districts. Arabia is part of the empire and it is divided into two minor provinces—Beja and Yemen. Arabia has an area of 170,000 square miles. Its population in round numbers is one million. In most parts of Arabia Turkish rule is only nominal. Some tribute is paid. In some of the cities there are small Turkish garrisons, but the Arabs in the distant parts know only a loose sort of tribal government. On the whole Arabia is a tableland, sloping steeply to the west, and bordered by highlands. The coast region along the southwestern shores of the Red sea, particularly the part known as El Yemen, is fertile, well watered and well cultivated. The district known as El Haza, along the west side of the Persian gulf, also contains much good soil. The interior is largely a desert, but contains many fertile spots. The southern coast is one of the hottest parts of the earth. In the fertile districts coffee is grown, also dates, maize, or Indian corn, cotton and rice. Mecca, the holy city, is in the west, not far from the Red sea. Its population is given at 90,000.

Army Men Poor at Phone.

"The best speakers on the telephone are actresses and the worst are military officers and policemen," a telephone operator is quoted by the London Daily Mail as saying.

"Soldiers who are accustomed to giving orders, and policemen, too," the operator continued, "develop a way of clipping their words. They also have a lot of 'blind spots' in their voices; that is, they let the intonation drop every now and then, so that you have to seize at fragments of words."

"Actresses have rich, musical voices, no matter how high-pitched they may sound on the wire. This, with a trained enunciation, makes them ideal telephone speakers. It is quite true that Americans are easier to understand than English people, because most of them talk slowly, with a certain 'sing song' in their voices."

MYERS THEATRE.
Lowery's Minstrels, the celebrated comedians, Clarence Powell and Ed Tolliver, are the stars of the comedy department and they are unexcelled in minstrelsy as any well posted minstrel fan knows. They are the two best "end men" in the country today, black or white, although the indications are that several young men with this organization are developing rapidly as fun makers and will soon be close seconds to Powell and Tolliver. All persons who attend the Lowery Greater Minstrels and do not leave at least one hundred and twenty times as well as constantly applaud the exceptional vaudeville acts are candidates for a serious examination by their family physicians. ## CASE AGAINST JOHNS HELD OPEN ONE WEEK

Roy Johns, who is charged with forging a note for $150, appeared in the municipal court to receive his sentence this morning, but Judge Maxfield decided to hold it open for one week, during which time he will consider his case. In adjourning the case the judge said he did not plan to let the young man off without a sentence, because it is too serious an offense and when it was committed Johns knew what he was doing. The judge said at the end of the week's time he would either allow the young man to work out his sentence on his father's farm or else he would be allowed to go into the army. Before I let him work on the farm it must be proven to me that he is needed there," said the judge.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CASE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a boy friend who asked me to go for a May walk with him one afternoon. After I accepted his invitation, another boy asked me to go to a party with him that evening and I accepted. The boy who took me for the May walk took a lunch and we made coffee over a fire. There was a s. another couple too. When I began to get late I told my friend I had to go home and he was very angry about it. I did not know that we were going to have lunch on our May walk. Did I do wrong? I like the boy who took me for the May walk very much and I have hurt his feelings. Would it be all right for me to tell him the next time I see him that I did not know he expected to be with me in the evening and that he made the engagement under the circumstances?

ERNESTINE.
It was all right to make the two engagements since you did not know that the first boy was going to take lunch and make an evening of it. I think it would be all right to explain to him that you are sorry the other engagement if you understood his plans.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man twenty years of age. I am a girl a month ago and I keep my company with her. I love her very much and she likes me. I am a girl a month ago and I keep my company with her. I love her very much and she likes me. I am a girl a month ago and I keep my company with her. I love her very much and she likes me.

It is most important that a man should not let a girl see too much of him. The man who calls for about two hours in the evening and, when he decides to go home goes at once, is always more popular with the girl who waits until the girl thinks he never will go. Conversations at the front door are not agreeable to a girl when a man has said he is going home.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

When sealing wax is used there should be no glue on the envelope. Otherwise the wax is superfluous. I take no reason why you should not invite your boy friend to call on you at your home, since your people know of him, and you have corresponded with him off and on for so long. He has shown much interest in you and it is his school friend with appropriate greetings at the different seasons. You might let him know the next time you expect to visit your home in his town and invite him to call there.

A young woman with blond hair, brown eyes and a fair complexion may wear becomingly the lighter shades of blue and pink, soft tones of brown and black.

BREADS.
Breakfast Muffins—Two-thirds cup partly sifted milk and cream, one egg well beaten, one tablespoon sugar, one-third teaspoon salt, four enough to make a stiff batter. (Can use half barley flour.) Add to four one-half teaspoon sugar and one-half teaspoon salt and mix again. Bake in gem pans.
Bacon Bread—One egg, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon soda, one tablespoon lard, one teaspoon baking powder, one pint sour milk, graham flour enough to make a thick batter when dropped from a spoon. Very good and inexpensive.
War Bread—Three cups oats, three cups graham flour, two cups wheat flour, two tablespoons melted butter, one tablespoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, one-half cake yeast dissolved in warm water.
Mix altogether and add warm water enough to make a stiff batter. Allow to rise to twice its size, turn into tins and allow to rise. Bake in a half cup molasses added is very good.

THE TABLE.
Creamed Eggs With Peas—Three hard-cooked eggs sliced, one and one-half cups cooked green peas, one and one-half cups milk, six slices of bread, salt and pepper, one and one-half tablespoons flour, one and one-half tablespoons butter or margarine, six thin slices bacon.
Mix the butter, add the flour, and cook until it begins to bubble. Add the cold milk gradually, stirring constantly. Add the peas, and season well. Toast six slices of bread and pour the white sauce and peas over it. Heap the hard-boiled eggs, sliced thin in the middle of each slice, cut the slices of bread into one-half inch slices and fry them until crisp. Sprinkle the bacon over the eggs of each serving. Garnish with parsley.
Lemon Syllabub—Dissolve one package lemon gelatin in one pint boiling water. When nearly cool add one-half orange sliced, one-half cup each of candied or maraschino cherries, blanched almonds and pistachios. Pour in shallow dish. When cold and firm cut in squares and place in tall glasses. Pour into each glass one wineglassful of lemon juice that has been soaked, sweetened and chilled.
Serve with whipped cream with a cherry on top.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
A Poulitice Will Keep Hot if you grease a piece of paper on one side with lard and lay on the paper on one side of the poulitice. The poulitice will keep hot three times as long as usual.
To Keep Ironholders Cool, pad them with pieces of old leather shoe-tops.
Parems and Eggs Scrambled—Pare and cut in eight pieces three large parsnips. Put them on to boil in water. Fry two pieces of bacon and stir out on meat plate. When parsnips are tender take out and fry them over. Scramble two eggs and let so that the egg will be evenly spread. When fried brown turn into ordinary vegetable dish and serve. Have the two pieces of bacon for further use in frying.

Rehearsing Patriotic Drama.
Green Bay, Wis., May.—Senators of St. Joseph's Academy have begun rehearsal on "The Thirteenth Star," a patriotic drama, to be given as the annual class play late this month. The rehearsal is in charge of Miss M. J. Dragg. The class play will be one of the big events of the closing days of the school year.

Combing Won't Rid Hair Of Dandruff
The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
Do this tonight and by morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone. If three or four more applications are completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be shiny, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.
You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Evening orators in the contest were to speak at 7:30. Teams will be awarded the winning team. The first prize in each contest is a two-year scholarship; the second prize a one-year scholarship, and the third prize $50 in cash.

Observations of a War Horse

My Dear Niece:
Whatever I might say to you about Jack Roth's conduct would be pure guesswork; and you are in a better position to guess than I am. I am a social and professional wall. The men swear by him, which means nothing more than that he pleases them. However, the reputation of being cleaner than the average run of his sex; and the Retail Credit Men's Association reports that he pays his debts. So far all the straw incline in his favor.
But that does not help one iota when it comes to his dealings with women. Some of the meanest things ever known to men to do to women were done by men who, according to accepted standards, were highly moral. And I do think that it is inconsiderate for a man to visit a girl for a short time and then drop her without explanation. That kind of treatment leaves a girl wondering what is wrong with her, and adds to her distress the helpless feeling of having the decision of her affairs wrenched from her hands.
But as to WHY a man stops visiting a girl suddenly in the special case, is beyond me. If I have data enough I can hazard a guess; but as in your and Jack's case I have no such data. I shall try to help you by giving you some of the reasons I have known to move men in similar circumstances.
The most important thing for you to do is to dismiss at once and for good any idea that his defection is a reflection on you. He may have ceased his visits because he found he was falling in love before it was wise for business reasons to do so, or to be entirely frank, it may have been because he began to love you and his judgment disapproved you. I mean that his judgment of selecting gentle to him the wisdom of selecting a girl, one with a different sense of social values. Men are beginning to realize that the clinging vine is frequently change to the point of strangulation.
These are suggestions merely. It is just as likely that Jack bought upstanding because of some obligation that he could not meet after marriage so that he ceased his attentions because of some lack in you. Perhaps his mother had to make him promise to marry her while she lives. There ARE women selfish and unwise enough to exact such promises from their sons—and Jack Roth is an only son.
Your uncle is to reply to his friendly letter just as if his defection was the most natural thing in all the world. Accept him on the basis of his friendship and wait for developments. You cannot force a feeling any more than you can a plant.
For your own sake, I am glad that your affair went no further. One of the grim things about this mating game is this: Those who know all the influences that are working on the life of a young person conceal the most vital facts about them. When a man or woman is fully committed to another, he is some day taken aside by father or mother and informed of a kind of a past disgrace, a financial obligation or some equally startling complication, kept back by false pride, family caution or pure cowardice, until it can no longer be concealed. And the love-dream, like a house of mist, is dissolved.
I have known several tragic stories that would have been far less poignant if those who were concerned had been told of their heritage before they fell in love and promised to marry the person of their choice. Of all the miserable frauds that parents practice on children, such concealments are the worst.
I am unable to say that Jack has been given such a revelation; but I am glad he stopped his visits before your evident interest took deeper root.

Some time, when circumstances seem propitious, I shall talk a bit with Willie about Jack's family history. The two were at college together, and I know they are friends.

Yours loving auntie,
THE WAR HORSE.

FASHION HINT

Set off most strikingly with summer furs, this dandy two piece made of Poiret will and worsted will be one of the real hits of the season. The coat is made sweater fashion and has a back and front panel knitted in black and white worsted, that is extremely odd and attractive. The cuffs too are knitted in the same manner. The beige color Poiret will is very harmonizing and makes for great beauty.

HOW HE GOT EVEN.
That Tuesday evening, when Charlie Smoot called to take Samantha Corners to a movie, Samantha's father, who didn't like him anyway, was only too delighted to tell him that the rich Dr. Sawyer Bones had taken Samantha to the Opera to hear Caruso sing "Drops of Blood."
Well, Charlie was wild! That hateful, rich Dr. Bones to take his daughter to the opera! It was a torturing thought. He knew Samantha liked the opera above all things, although how she could sit and listen to that foreign stuff that you didn't make a word out of, was beyond his limited powers of reasoning. He also gathered, and I know they are friends. I have been thinking over what you wrote me about Cousin Annie and your new surroundings, and will make suggestions soon to help her settle in her new home.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

"Come on," said Uncle Lucky to the Jay Bird, who, you remember in the last story, asked the old gentleman rabbit to help him and Billy Bunny. "Come on. Get into the Luckymobile, and away they went, and by and by they came across Robin Redbreast, who always knew just where the little rabbit was, but how he did it I don't know, so I can't tell you."

"I saw him this morning," he replied in answer to Uncle Lucky's question. "He was hopping along with his knapsack on his back and his striped candy cane in his right paw, and a beautiful smile on his face, and—"

"Never mind what else," interrupted the old gentleman rabbit impatiently, which was rather strange, for Uncle Lucky was usually very patient. "Tell us which way he went."

"Down that road," said Robin Redbreast, pointing to a rough path that led through the forest. "That's the way he went."

So Uncle Lucky turned the automobile into the woods, and, dear me, how it bumped over the rough places, but Uncle Lucky didn't care and the Jay Bird didn't either; and after a while they came to Danny Beavers' den, on his log dam and looking at him as if a mirror if you wasn't too particular about how it made you look.

"Have you seen my little nephew?"

Now that it was beyond his purse to take Samantha to the opera. Why, the jealous anger he justly felt at Dr. Bones, his hated rich rival, doing what he couldn't.

So Charlie borrowed two dollars for indefinite period from his best friend, and rushed to the opera house where he bought the best seat he could find; away back on the end of the last row of the top gallery.

As soon as he was seated he dashed aside his eye-glasses, whipped out his opera glasses, banged them to the bridge of his nose and swept the audience with his eyes.

Aha! Just what he thought! Samantha and Dr. Bones snuggled lovingly back in their seats with noses almost touching.

In agony, Charlie sat through the first act, and as soon as intermission began he hastily scribbled something on a white card, called an usher, handed it to him, at the same time whispering a few words to the usher.

On the second act, Dr. Bones was hurriedly stepping over everybody in his anxiety to get away quickly. When Charlie saw with great joy, and he hastened down and took the Doctor's five-dollar seat in the fourth row beside Samantha.

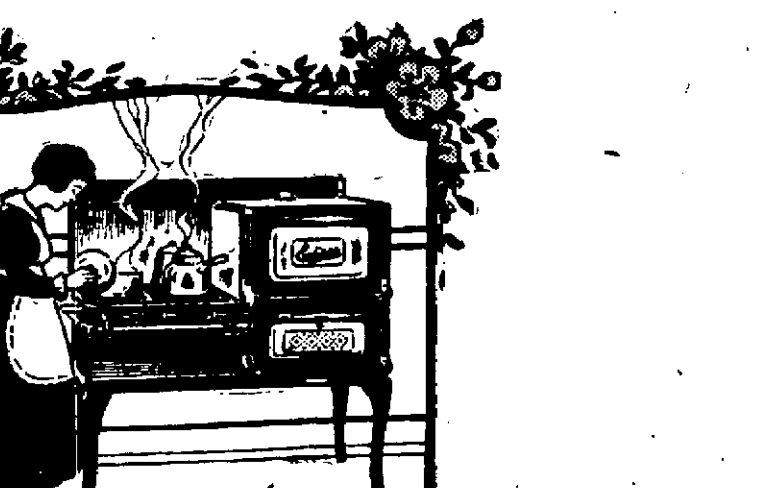

Needless to say Charlie felt very much peeved at the Doctor's hasty exit and didn't believe that he had been called out as he said.

However, just as they were leaving after the opera was over, Charlie stooped down and picked up the card the usher had handed him. The card which read: "Dr. Bones is wanted at once on a matter of life and death—at 424 N. 94th St."

"Haw-haw!" laughed Charlie. As he recognized his own handwriting, "And he bit on that fake case like a whale!"

So Charlie got married and Samantha got married, for they married each other, and just for spite, Charlie wouldn't let Dr. Bones have a piece of their wedding cake.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CASE OF THE GAZETTE

Young Ones.
Here is one of the numerous letters that I get from the young people and make this letter yours:
My Dear Doctor:
I am fat, fair and eighty. Old as I am, I am doing much of my figure. But when I glance in the mirror, I feel "clean tired" of looking at such unmanly lines. I reached eighty twenty years ago. I had "hoofed it" daily some five or ten miles, and spent many happy hours fishing, boating, etc., and at that time I kept my weight down to 125 to 130 pounds. Then about five years ago catarrhs got me, and automobiles made the crossings so dangerous that I had to take to the water. I began to get fat, and now I am kicking the beam at 185 pounds. It is an old saying that the fat is not fat like an old fool. I am five feet eight inches tall. If you think that "Karralls" would be good for an old fool, please send me a copy of your brochure.

You many years I have daily used two-pound dumbbells before my daily bath at about 98 degrees, followed by cold shower. For nearly twenty years I have been touching my toes, without bending my knees, twenty-five times, and it never hurries my breathing. But, there is always a but. I am now 76 years old, and I am making the mistake of your life; some day you will find something.
Is the grand old crowd right or am I wrong, or what? Please guide me in the right path, doctor, and oblige.
Yours sincerely,
A. B. C.
The youthful character of this letter aroused some suspicion. I thought perhaps some venerable was of thirty-six or thereabout was trying to put one over on me. No, it's the honest truth. The lad is eighty and I am irrevocable.
I have it straight from one of the grandpas he refers to that he had a silly ass with suicidal intentions. The average old fellow of forty puts considerable if he tries to bend

SIDE TALKS

BY RUTH CAMERON

Do You Believe in Criticism?
"I don't believe in criticism." So a very thoughtful woman, whose conclusions I usually respect, deared to me the other day after hearing two sisters rattle each other's dampers and get themselves all "het" over a session of mutual criticism, which started to make her children mind better.

I could understand perfectly how the woman felt. A session of criticism had developed a lot of ill feeling, and to all appearances, done no good whatever.
And yet I don't agree with her sweeping condemnation of criticism, per se.
I think there are two distinct kinds of criticism.

Criticism That is Simply Made To Relieve The Mind.
There's the nagging, snail finding criticism that is made simply to relieve the critic's mind, to assert his sense of his own superiority, to show how much better he could run other people's affairs than themselves.

That is, also, the commonest kind of criticism.
We Love Them Too Much To See Them Miss Happiness.
But there is also a kind of criticism which is offered in the spirit of helpfulness to those whom we love too much to see them miss the happiness we feel they might get if they would order their lives a little differently. This kind of criticism is of course, after much thought, much hesitation. This critic does not enjoy making it; he has no sense of impelling rancor—no feeling of pleasure in the kind of criticism that I believe in.

To Receive Such Criticism With Honor Shows a certain kind of kind with rancor, with irritable counter attacks, or oppose to it an impenetrable armor of self justification. I think it shows one of the most serious weaknesses of character.
Unfortunately, it is every common for the critic to think he is giving the second type of criticism, when he is really giving the first.
Only one way—by being absolutely honest with oneself.

O'Reilly's upturned face was ghastly. He wet his lips. He managed to whisper Rosa's name.
"The riches of the Varonas! What a find!" Cobo's teeth shone white in the grin of avarice. "Yes, I see now—a cavern in the rock. Well, well! And you are the spirit of Sebastian, chained to the novels of La Cumbre. Ha! These are the ghosts—" He began to chuckle, but the sound of his malevolent merriment was like the hiccupping of a drunken man.
"Rosa! What have you done—" Cobo ran on unheeding: "It must be a great treasure, indeed, from all accounts—the ransom of a dozen kings. That's what Cito said. The ransom of a dozen kings? Those were his very words."

Alkali Makes Soap Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.
The best thing to use is just plain milled coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.
Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

GREAT FOR ECZEMA AND OLD SORES

I Guarantee My Ointment, Says Peterson. Stops Itching Constantly

"If you are responsible for the health of your family," says Peterson, "I want you to get a large 30 cent box of Peterson's Ointment today.
"Remember, I stand back of every box. Every druggist guarantees to refund the purchase price if Peterson's Ointment doesn't do all I claim.
"I guarantee it for eczema, old sores, running sores, salt rheum, ulcers, skin eruptions, broken breasts, itching skin, pimples, blackheads, skin diseases, blind, bleeding and itching piles as well as for burns, scalds, cuts, bruises and sunburn."
"I had 30 running sores on my leg for 12 years, and was in three different hospitals. Amputation was advised. Skin grafting was tried. I was cured by using Peterson's Ointment."

The fellow continued to sway himself back and forth, peering as if his eyes were about to leave his head. For a long moment or two he utterly disregarded O'Reilly, but finally as he gained more self-control his gaze shifted and his expression altered. He changed his weight to his left arm and with his right hand he drew his revolver.
"What are you doing?" O'Reilly cried, hoarsely.
The colonel seemed vaguely surprised at this question. "Fool! Do you expect me to share it with you?" he inquired.
"Wait! There's enough—for all of us," O'Reilly feebly protested; then, as he heard the click of the cocked weapon: "Get me out. I'll pay you well—make you rich." In desperation he raised his shaking hand to dash out the candle, but even as he did so the colonel spoke, at the same time carefully lowering the revolver hammer.
"You are right. What am I thinking about? There must be no noise. Caramba! A pretty business that would be, wouldn't it? With my men running up here to see what it was all about. No, no! No gunshots, no disturbance of any kind. You understand what I mean, eh?"
His face twisted into a grin as he tossed the revolver aside, then undertook to detach a stone from the crumbling curb. "No noise!" he chuckled. "No noise whatever!"

O'Reilly, stupefied by the sudden appearance of this monstrous creature, stunned by the certainty of a catastrophe to Rosa, awoke to the fact that this man intended to brain him where he stood. In a panic he cast his eyes about him, thinking to take shelter in the treasure-cave, but that retreat was closed to him, for he had wedged the wooden timbers together at the first alarm. He was like a rat in a pit, utterly at the mercy of this maniac. And Cobo was a maniac at the moment; he had so far lost control of himself as to allow the stone to slip out of his grasp. It fell with a thud at O'Reilly's feet, causing the assassin to laugh once more.
"Ho, ho!" he hiccupped. "My fingers are clumsy, eh? But there is no need for haste." He stretched out his arm again, laid hold of another missile, and strained to loosen it from its bed. "Jewels! Pearls the size of plums! And a poor man! I can't believe it yet." He could not detach the stone, so he fumbled farther along the curb. "Pearls; indeed! I would send a dozen men to hell for one—"

O'Reilly had been standing petrified, his body forced tightly against the rough surface behind him, following with strained fascination the deliberate movements of the man above him; now he saw Cobo, without the least apparent reason, twist and shudder, saw him stiffen rigidly as if seized with a sudden cramp, saw his eyes dilate and heard him heave a deep, whistling sigh. O'Reilly could not imagine what ailed the fellow. For an eternity, so it seemed, Cobo remained leaning upon his outspread arms, fixed in that same attitude of paralysis—it looked almost as if he had been startled by some sound close by. But manifestly that was not the cause of his hesitation, for his face became convulsed and an expression of blank and utter astonishment was stamped upon it. The men stared fixedly at each other. O'Reilly with his head thrown back, Cobo with his body propped rigidly upon wooden arms and that peculiar shocked inquiry in his glaring eyes. But slowly this expression changed; the colonel bent as if beneath a great weight, his head rose and turned back upon his neck, he filled his lungs with another wheezing sigh. His teeth, ground together, his head began to wag upon his shoulders; it dropped lower and lower; one hand slipped from its hold and he lurched forward. An instant he hung suspended from the waist; then he appeared to let go limply as all resistance went out of his big body. There came a warning rattle of dirt and mortar and pebbles; the next instant he slipped into the well and plunged headlong down upon O'Reilly, an avalanche of lifeless flesh. Johnnie shielded himself with his upflung arms, but he was driven to his knees, and when he scrambled to his feet, half stunned, it was to find himself in utter darkness. There was a heavy weight against his legs. With a strength born of horror and revulsion he freed himself; then hearing no sound and feeling no movement, he fumbled for the candle and with clumsy fingers managed to relight it. Even after the flame had leaped out and he saw what shared the pit with him he could barely credit his senses. The nature of his deliverance was uncanny, supernatural—it left him dazed. He had beheld death stamped upon Cobo's writhing face even while the fellow braced himself to keep from falling, but what force had effected the phenomenon, what unseen hand had stricken him, Johnnie was at a loss to comprehend. It seemed a miracle, indeed, until he looked closer. Then he understood. Cobo lay in a formless, boneless heap; he seemed to be all arms and legs; his face was hidden, but between his shoulders there protruded the crude wooden handle of a home-made knife to which a loop of cord was tied.

O'Reilly stared stupidly at the weapon; then he raised his eyes. Peering down at him out of the night was another face, an impertinent, beardless, youthful face.
He uttered Jacket's name, and the boy answered with a smile. "Bring my knife with you when you come," the latter directed.
"You!" The American's voice was weak and shaky. "I thought—" He set the candle down and covered his eyes momentarily.
"That's a good knife, all right, and sharp, too. The fellow died in a hurry, eh? Who does he happen to be?"
"Don't you know? It—it's Cobo."
"Cobo! Cobo, the baby-killer!" Jacket breathed an oath. "Oh, that blessed knife!" The boy craned his small body forward until he was in danger of following his victim. "Now, this is good luck indeed! And to think that he died just like any other man."
"Rosa! Where is she?" O'Reilly inquired in a new agony of apprehension.
"Oh, she is here," Jacket assured him, carelessly. "I think she has fainted."
"Help me out, quick! Here, catch this rope." Johnnie managed to fling the coil within reach of his little friend and a moment later he had hoisted himself from that pit of tragedy.

CHAPTER XX.

Morin, the Fisherman.
When Rosa Varona regained consciousness sufficiently to understand what had happened she proved herself a person of no little self-control. It was she, in fact, who first voiced the fact that Cobo dead was scarcely less a menace than Cobo alive.

"What are we going to do with him?" she inquired.
Jacket, too, appreciated the dangers of the situation. "We must get rid of him quickly," said he, "for his men are close by; he will be missed and there will be a search."
"I don't intend to make him a present of that treasure," O'Reilly said.

grimly. "It is our only salvation."
"But how are we going to hide him?" Jacket inquired. "One might as well try to conceal a church; even couldn't hold him out of that hole."
"Precisely! He has made our work easy for us. We can't take more than a small part of the money with us, anyhow; the rest will have to lie here until the war is over. Well, we shall leave Cobo on guard over what remains!"
Jacket was immensely pleased with this idea, once he had grasped it. "What could be better?" he cried. "The man's spirit is evil enough to frighten people away and we will drop stories upon him, so that he can learn the taste of his own medicine. It suits me exactly to think of Colonel Cobo standing on his head in a hole in the ground for the rest of eternity!"
O'Reilly was by this time suffering the full reaction from the events of the past half-hour and he was nearer exhaustion than he dreamed, but, conquering his repugnance for his uncapable task, he lowered himself once more into the well. His arms were weak, however, and his fingers numb, so he fell rather than slid the length of the rope. He managed to open the door of the treasure chamber, then entered and loaded his pockets with gold. He sent up the jewel box at the end of the rope, dragged the body of Cobo into the cave, then wedged the barricade back into place. If required the combined strength of Rosa and Jacket to help him the last few feet of his climb.
"Now fetch stones, rubbish, anything—and throw it in there," he gasped.
The boy and the girl fell to with a will, and after a time Johnnie joined them. Slowly, laboriously, the three of them carried debris from the edge of the quarry and bricks from the ruined house; they scraped up armfuls of leaves and trash—anything, in fact, which would serve to raise the bottom of the shaft and conceal the entrance to their enemy's resting place. It was slavish work, but O'Reilly kept them at it until they were ready to drop. Daylight overtook them at their task. They were weak, sick, deadly tired; they could barely shuffle a few yards at a time when they finally reached Asensio's hut; nevertheless there was hope in their hearts, for O'Reilly's ragged clothes sagged with the weight of gold pieces and the little metal box he carried was heavy. Nor were they greatly concerned about the safety of the treasure they had left behind, for the entrance to the cavern lay deeply buried, and Cobo, the guerrilla, stood guard over the chests of plate and the casks of coin.

Evangelina, vastly bewildered at the sight of the coin which was forced into her palm, went for food and spent most of the day in cooking it. The treasure hunters alternately slept and ate. It was not until well along toward evening that Rosa and O'Reilly felt any desire to take stock of the contents of that jewel box, but finally, with heads together and with backs to the door of the hobbo, they made a furtive examination. They found emeralds and sapphires, the value of which they did not attempt to estimate; and, besides these, a miscellaneous assortment of semiprecious stones.

O'Reilly realized vaguely that he held in his lap a fortune greater than his wildest dreams had ever compassed. These were the jewels of a rajah. It seemed incredible that this ragged girl beside him was a regal heiress, the possessor of a treasure such as kings might envy. After a time he realized that the mere possession of these gems constituted a new and overwhelming menace.

Pleasant Fields Of Holy Writ

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.
Second Quarter. Lesson VI. Mark X. 32-45. May 12, 1918.
Golden Text. He humbled himself, becoming obedient even unto death, yea, the death of the cross. Philippians II. 8.

JESUS FACES THE CROSS.
There are moments when solitude is indispensable. Proximity of even the dearest companions augments distress. It was so as Jesus approached Jerusalem. The mountains which surrounded the Holy City were in full view and with them came to him the vision of what he was to suffer. The disciples were conscious of some ordeal which the Master was undergoing and with uncommon thoughtfulness gave space, following at a distance. The narrative quaintly says they were amazed and afraid.
"Soon Jesus considerably called the apostles to him and described what awaited him with singular minuteness. He was to be delivered to the chief priests and scribes who would condemn him to death, then to the Gentiles who would spit upon and scourge and kill him."
It is paradoxical that at such a time Jesus and John should have preferred their request. They were so obsessed with ambition for preeminence in the Messianic Kingdom that they seemed not to comprehend or heed the revelation of the impending disaster. They wanted places to right and left of the throne. Honor, power, exultation, for them eclipsed every other consideration. Their action was as unworthy as if one should approach the empire and ask preference on the score of friendship. Jesus' answer was the only one he could make. "It is not mine to give it is for those who win, for those who prepare themselves by exercise and discipline to take it."
The unworthy request furnished the Master with a text, clear and striking for a sermon against ambition. The characteristic of the temporal kingdom, like the Roman Empire, for example, is the joy and pride with which those in onetime exercise their authority, as if they were subject to no law, made for that purpose. But the Messianic kingdom is in its spirit and practice entirely different, in fact the absolute opposite. The problem is not "Who can I lord it over, but who can I serve?" And the King of the Messianic Kingdom in his own person is the consummate and permanent incarnation and exemplar of this utterly unworldly principle.
Jesus' forbearance and patience with his dull and tardy disciples has another striking illustration in this connection. To their childish request that he commit himself in advance he said, no doubt with a smile and gentle tone, "Come now! Be more explicit. What is it you want me to do for you?" and when they plucked up courage to tell he answered gently, "You surely do not know what you are asking. The portion that is coming to me is entirely different from what you imagine. Can you drink my cup or be baptized with my baptism?" He does not quench the sputtering wick with severe upbraiding. He does not put his heel on the slender reed bending low under the breath of temptation. On the contrary he forecasts that moral evolution which will at length display a character of martyr-stuff, when he says exultingly, "Mine shall be given up and mine soul baptism."
THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.
Imperialism is the age-long temptation of church and state. The ambition to exercise "lordship" is in reality in the final analysis the cause of the world-war which has drenched the earth in blood and tears, and now endangers civilization, very self. The fundamental, universal and perpetual character of Jesus' teaching is shown in his absolute prohibition of the spirit and practice of "lordship," which is only another name for Imperialism.
It is surprising what petty forms the spirit of lordship can assume, in what narrow and obscure circles it can assert itself, in village, church and town-meeting, in school, shop and home, in committee, primary and lodge. The effort is to dominate by sheer force or accident of wealth or social prestige. He who practices it proves by the very act that he has no part or lot in the kingdom though his name may appear in the ecclesiastical roster. . . . The spirit and animus of the kingdom is to minister and serve, to give and not get, to spend and be spent for others. Jesus himself gives a striking and memorable object-lesson of it when, after the disciples had given an example of the opposite in their unseemly scramble for the best seats at the supper, he took a towel and basin and began to wash the disciples' feet, the lowest task of the meanest scullion in the Syrian household, a service which the disciples with their Oriental notions would not have done for the Master himself.

That the Ten were angry with the two shows that they were open to the same temptation and were jealous of James and John because they anticipated them in preferring the request. . . . The ambitious disciples did when their development was complete, drink Jesus' cup, courageously, James as first martyr and John as exile in Patmos. . . . In a country where capital punishment by crucifixion was not infrequent Jesus may at some time have unavoidably witnessed the dreadful scene at least in some phase of it. If so how well he knew the "cup" that was awaiting him and with what immortal courage he approached it. . . . Unreigned ambition, like that of James and John is like "a mounting devil in the heart." . . . "Real joy comes not from ease or riches or from the praise of men, but from doing something worth while." Who says that? The man of this generation who, by the sacrifices he has made and the intelligent and merciful service he has rendered has as good a right to say it as any other—Dr. Greenfield of the Labrador Medical Mission. . . . "Horace Bushnell says, 'The way of duty is the way of greatness.' James and John did not see that clearly at the start, but they learned it later and perfectly."

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP.

Motto: Mutual association of persons on equal and friendly terms. Century Dictionary.
Companionship cemented by a common faith is the strongest and sweetest of the world knows anything about. Engineers swinging the last span of an iron bridge into position were annoyed to find the girders apparently short. But there came a day when a hot sun shone upon the gleaming metal and the parts came together. The subordinate telegraphed to the chief engineer for instructions and got the laconic answer "Right." Under the rays of the Sun of Righteousness souls that would otherwise stand apart are locked in a companionship unique and enduring.

Dinner Stories

"Now," said the colonel, looking along the line of recruits, "I want a good smart bugler."
At that out stepped a dilapidated fellow who had a thick stubble of black beard.

"What!" said the colonel, eyeing him up and down, "are you a bugler?"
"Oh, bugler!" said he. "I thought you said bugler."
With a stormy look on his face, the master of the house waylaid the servant in the kitchen.
"Look here," he began angrily, "how dare you tell my wife what time I came home this morning, after I told you not to?"
The Irish girl eyed him steadily. "Shure an' Oi didn't," she replied, calmly. "She asked me phwat time yer came in, an' Oi only told her that Oi was too busy gettin' the breakfast ready to look at the clock."
She was a sweet young thing, and as she happened to be sitting nearby, he asked her over to his camp to see some football on the Saturday afternoon. He sat by her side chatting.
"That's Williams in goal," he explained. "Jolly good sort. And there's Tommy Jones; he's playing center forward. He'll be our best man before long."
She gasped. "Will he, really?" she cried. "But, George, this is so sudden!"

WOMEN ARE BOOSTING IT

You Cannot Fool the Women

Once you have shown them and got their confidence they will stick through thick and thin to what they know and believe is a good thing.
Hundreds of women in our city are going around today with joy in their hearts and a new lease on life and health where before each day was one long "nervous drag of misery."
As one woman expressed it, "It's not the work you do, it's the way you feel that makes the difference; you cannot get ahead when you go to bed all in, too tired to sleep and get up in the morning half dead. Believe me I know. I certainly was a nervous wreck, every task a load, no ambition, thin, haggard and pale, an old woman before my time. Look at me now, some change, eh? Work is a pleasure, I am just bubbling over with life and good spirits, the picture of health, cheeks rosy and full of the color that only ironized blood can give, while my phosphate-fed nerves are as steady as a clock, nothing worries me, I sleep like a top and feel like a girl of sixteen. Take it from me, I want Phosphated Iron to get credit for everything; too much cannot be said in its praise, it sure is the goods and everyone I have recommended it to is a booster."
This is only one of many like cases in our city, there is no need of any man or woman going around with that tired ill-fed feeling around with nervousness, if they will get next to themselves, take a brace, and stack up to a package of Phosphated Iron. It sure will spruce you up and make you feel like a live wire once more, so get busy.
To insure physicians and their patients getting the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put in capsules only. Do not take pills or tablets, insist on capsules. Smith Drug Co., and leading druggists in every other city and town in the country.

JANESVILLE DEFECTS ARE POINTED OUT

population. He then spoke of the lack of development in this city. The business and professional men of the city have taken the things given them by their fathers and in place of improving them they have simply worn them out. He also spoke of the lack of improvements in this city, compared with surrounding cities. He stated that if the average man lived in Janesville six years he lost all desire to go any place else and develop because the atmosphere here was so nothing and peaceful that the men wanted to leave.

Mr. Mahoney's address was very opportune and had a tendency to put the proper spirit in the assembly. He spoke not as a knocker but as an observer, and at the end of his address the hall rang for fully five minutes with the applause of all present.

William George Bruce, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Milwaukee, was the next speaker and in opening his address Mr. Bruce stated that compared with the size of the city that the dinner last evening was one of the largest and best that he had ever attended.

Mr. Bruce then stated that the three big things that are demanded by cities are efficiency, service and patriotism. He stated that cities were like men; they were strong, weak or indifferent. He stated how every community had knocker and indifferent men. He told of how the man who boasts is an asset, the man who knocks is soon found out and no one pays any attention to him but the indifferent man is dangerous and should be regarded as such.

Must Be Associated. The speaker told of how the men of the city must be associated if the city is going to grow. He told of cities that have means of livelihood. How it must have taxable property in order to have grand boulevards and support theatres. He told how it must have a collective citizenship in order to promote anything of the best interest of the city.

He stated that there is a service to perform in every city and that it must be performed by the collective citizenship. He further added that a collective citizenship free from political strings and cliques is an asset to the city. The speaker then stated that a Chamber of Commerce is a necessity. He spoke of and compared cities in this state and in the United States. He told of how regardless of the fact that this state was known as a farming state that it was more largely industrial than agricultural.

He told of the wonderful future for Wisconsin. He stated that although the geographical location was excellent, it was due not to this but to the environment that this state was destined to become a leader. He told of the work of the Great Lakes and started many of those present when he stated that there was more tonnage carried on the Great Lakes than there is carried on the Atlantic ocean between Boston and Europe. He told of how the state was connected with two transcontinental railroads with the big markets of the middle west. He then compared the lake shore of Wisconsin with that of Wisconsin and pointed out the vast difference in the cities.

Manufactures Needed. He then spoke of the people present that he was manufacturing plants that makes a city grow. It is absolutely necessary to have them and he stated that if the plants in this city could close that it would grow on Milwaukee street. He told of the wonderful power that there is in any community if exerted and stated that it is surprising but nevertheless true. But this power has got to be exerted. He spoke of the duties of the citizens and stated that no man was a loyal citizen unless he was loyal to his own home town. He urged the people to stand by their local merchants. He stated that the citizens of this city had no business going to Chicago or Milwaukee for things that they can buy in this city.

Going further he said of the leaving of the young men when they reach the age of twenty or twenty-one. He stated that these men should have an opportunity to make their fortune in their home town and if not given the chance they have to get out in order to develop. He told of the splendid opportunities in this city and said the people to boost Janesville; to be proud of it. He also appealed to them to get together and pull, to forget past errors and hand-in-hand to work for the betterment of Janesville. He then told of how Wisconsin had been attacked for being disloyal and stated that early this spring Wisconsin had more of her boys on the western front fighting than any other state in the union.

In closing Mr. Bruce again appealed to the people to get together and pull and work hard and at all times make it a bigger and better Janesville.

Col. A. C. Simmons, who is representing the American City Bureau, read the following unsolicited letter from the Eastern State of Wisconsin, which shows that the plural membership plan has the approval of other communities. The letter is so full of civic spirit that it is produced here in full.

The Modern Chamber of Commerce has outgrown the narrow field to which the old Chamber of Commerce in most cities, and especially in Janesville, has been restricted, and has become an instrument for the betterment of the community in ways which are too numerous to mention here but which deserve the attention and study of all members.

The primary implication of a membership in the Chamber of Commerce is service. The best member of the Chamber of Commerce is the one who gives most freely of his time, his energy and his thought. The demands for time are not heavy except in a case of a few officials, but no one can give too much thought to the organization and to its development along broad lines which will benefit both the community and the nation, and through the Members Council everyone has a chance to give as much service as they are able to.

The Eastern Manufacturing Company in assigning the twenty membership which it has taken in the reorganized Chamber of Commerce wishes to impress on you that the more active part you take in the Chamber of Commerce the more the benefit both to the company and to the community. This benefit will be largely indirect, anything which better communities to live in, is a help to the company and we firmly believe that through active participation in the work of this reorganized Chamber of Commerce, its members can be of great service to the community. We are also firmly convinced that the member of a community who serves that community is also more valuable to his company than one who gives no service to the community.

You may possibly think that the particular line of work which you are doing for the company is of no bearing on the work of a modern Chamber of Commerce. If you will study carefully the organization and program of the reorganized Chamber of Commerce we feel that you will be convinced that no matter how far your interests may seem to be from those of this body, the community which should not be and will not be represented.

You will receive some time within the next week of two or three letters which will vote for the executive committee of the reorganized Chamber of Commerce. Please give this ballot your careful attention and study. You will find on the ballot full instructions for voting. You will also receive a questionnaire on which will be two questions somewhat as follows: The Chamber of Commerce do which will be of the most help to your business or profession?

What is your opinion is the most important thing for the Chamber of Commerce to do for the community?

In making your answers on the questionnaire consider them carefully and do not hesitate to express fully and frankly your individual opinions. In assigning the twenty membership to the Eastern Manufacturing Company expects you to act as an individual with no strings whatsoever upon you and the Chamber of Commerce desires the expression of individual thought of all its members.

S. B. COPELAND,
H. J. GUILD.

Col. Charles A. Simmons representing the American City Bureau, then outlined some of the plans of the Chamber of Commerce in Janesville. The talk was listened to with interest, because it was the first announcement in a public meeting of the reorganized Chamber of Commerce. The speaker then outlined some of the plans of the Chamber of Commerce in Janesville. The talk was listened to with interest, because it was the first announcement in a public meeting of the reorganized Chamber of Commerce.

In part, Col. Simmons said: "The great conflict raging in Europe has brought home to cities all over the United States the need of efficient community organizations, joining with individuals and other bodies in the great patriotic task of giving our very best support to the end of winning the war."

"The war has developed and broadened many men, and it is teaching untold service, for the good of all. It is necessary for me to talk rather frankly about the organization which I represent, because I want you to know the American City Bureau, and to realize that the work which is being done here is not experimental in any way."

"The American City Bureau, with a record of experience gained in more than one hundred American cities, is in Janesville at the request of local men representing a wide variety of interests, to organize a Chamber of Commerce along broad and modern lines."

"There are certain cardinal principles of an efficient Chamber of Commerce, built on modern lines, which are fundamentally correct. Experience has proven that it is necessary to have an adequate organization in order to handle properly the many different lines of activity which will be required by the work to be undertaken during the next three years."

"The Janesville Chamber of Commerce should have at least four hundred members. With a membership fee of $25, an income of $10,000 a year will be provided, for a period of three years."

"By the plural membership plan, banks, larger merchants, industrial corporations and wealthy residents are permitted to subscribe for more than one membership, and assign their surplus memberships to individuals. Every member has one vote, and the member who subscribes for plural memberships has one vote, so that it gives those who can afford to do so opportunity to contribute to the success of the organization in any way giving them an unfair control of its destinies."

"Then it provides a program of work, a definite line of action for the months to come. The organization does not merely wander along, taking up tasks haphazard, but hews to a set line of action. This program is made up from carefully considered suggestions of the entire membership, and it is the substance of the best thinking that the entire membership can offer."

"A comprehensive program of work, managed scientifically, makes a Chamber of Commerce a tremendously efficient force. Under this plan the directors really direct, and the president becomes in reality an executive officer."

"When the members of an organization can understand that the organization is headed somewhere, and in the right direction, there is more inclination to take an active interest. The members elect the directors, they create the program of work, they constitute the committee which carry on the work, and they decide, by referendum, all questions as to the policy of the organization and the vital interests of the community."

"A system of committee organization and control, based upon actual experience of the most successful organizations in the country, is installed. Under this plan committee service becomes scientific. Men express their individual interests, and those who want to see a project put through, are appointed on a committee to undertake the task."

"Each undertaking is carefully analyzed; there is money in the treasury for the necessary expenses; and the committee is the intelligent support of the office force and the officers of the organization; regular supervision converts spasmodic effort into steady advance."

"The management of the organization, along proven lines, gives that requisite feature of efficiency which is desired by men who want to see actual results come of the efforts which are put forth."

"Moreover, after the intensive campaign which will produce the membership and the financial support in a month of service is given under the eye of a trained organization worker, during which time the entire set of new directors, chosen by the members, is elected. The directors elect officers and choose a secretary-manager, office systems are installed, and advice given on the problems which arise in the first few months of the year."

"Following that, for a period of three years, the American City Bureau gives expert advice and supervision to the affairs of the Janesville Chamber of Commerce. The Bureau will assist the city from time to time to check up on the progress made, and the Bureau of Information of the American City Bureau is always ready to furnish data and advice on the problems which come up along municipal and civic lines.

"So it is with confidence that we look forward to a goodly number of men, who realize the future of Janesville and what can be accomplished through efficient community organization, volunteering to aid by working as captains or as members of the campaign teams, and to the responsibility of men and women in joining hands in the organization, with a look ahead, for the best interests of the whole city without individual preference, unselfishly, for the good of all."

ARMY MEDICAL CORPS MEMBERS ARE EXPOSED TO FIRE AT THE FRONT

Washington, May 10.—Persons accustomed to think of the army corps as a non-combatant unit will be astonished by suggestions prepared for the conduct of military surgeons newly arrived in the war zone. A bulletin from the office of the surgeon general sums up the technical military knowledge which an army surgeon must have to do his duty competently and incidentally shows the exposure to which he is subject.

"As soon as the battalion or regimental surgeon arrives in a new sector and has supervised the installation of his material," the bulletin says, "he should rapidly gain an intimate personal knowledge of the first line trenches, dugouts, listening posts, evacuation trenches, and means of transportation to the rear. This knowledge should be gained on the day of arrival, if possible, because enemy surprise attacks are frequently coincident with the arrival of troops in a new sector. It should be acquired through day and night inspections in order that he may be able to describe the topography of the sector to his personnel. The latter should be given an early opportunity to familiarize themselves with the system of trenches and evacuation routes, so that when called upon to pick up wounded, at least one man of each squad is familiar with the general contour and direction of the trenches."

"The surgeon should also acquaint himself, through his commanding officer, with the location of the enemy trenches, batteries, trench mortars and miscellaneous redoubts, together with the habits of the enemy in that particular sector. By 'habits' is meant the routine firing of the day or night during periods of normal activity. Certain open spaces, cross roads, gullies, etc., are regularly under fire at certain hours of the day or night and the sanitary personnel must learn to avoid these exposed places during these periods."

The Fallacy of the Guarantee

THERE is one delusive element in the tire business that we Goodyear Service Station Dealers want our customers to recognize—that is the definite mileage guarantee.

It is an outworn practice held over from the time when tire quality was uncertain and variable; today it is a deceptive attraction used chiefly as an inducement to purchase.

How can a manufacturer in fairness put a definite mileage guarantee on his tires, when he knows very well that in no two cases will the conditions of use be the same?

Where is the equality of a plan by which a careful tire user is taxed for a guarantee he will never need, while a reckless driver who is sure to benefit by it is made to pay no more?

The cost of the definite mileage guarantee is borne by the tire that carries it, just as every other cost connected with such a tire is included in the selling price.

If the tire with such a guarantee costs no more to buy than other tires without it, you may feel sure that there has been some compromise of quality to keep the figure even.

For the definite mileage guarantee must be paid for, make no mistake about that—and its cost must be included in the tire you buy.

We Goodyear Service Station Dealers advise our customers to buy a tire in which this cost is spent to better the value, instead of for an inducement which will help to sell the tire.

This sign identifies the Goodyear Service Station Dealer.

KENTUCKY DERBY WILL DRAW LARGE CROWD OF FANS TO LOUISVILLE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Louisville, May 10.—Indications point to one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed the running of the Kentucky Derby on Saturday. Several trains from Chicago, Cincinnati and Nashville will bring large delegations of horse lovers to this city. Many parties from the West and South have made reservations at leading hotels. Birmingham, N. Y., home of W. S. Kilmer, owner of Sun Briar, will send a large delegation, probably the greatest to arrive from any city of equal population. There also will be many automobile parties from southern Indiana and Kentucky towns. Everything is in readiness for the opening of the day at Churchill Downs. A number of improvements to the great plant have been made since last season and the Downs course may be said to be ready to accommodate the greatest crowd in its history. The Derby field will not be a large one, but what it lacks in quantity will be made up in quality. It is doubtful whether a three-year-old race scheduled in this country in a better lot of colts. Since the arrival of War Cloud at Churchill Downs the Macomber colt has been established as the favorite by the so-called "wise" contingent, and the eastern horse seems to be in a condition to justify their choice. Sun Briar, since his return from Lexington, has had several fast workouts and his trainer thinks he has gotten over his disposition to balk, as shown at Lexington, and that he will be the horse that War Cloud will have to defeat. Escoba, second choice of the layers of odds and the home of Kentuckians in general, made a fine showing in his races at Lexington, against other horses and his admirers point to this fact as being an advantage over horses which have not faced the barrier this season.

GOOD SHORTSTOPS ARE SCARCE IN BIG LEAGUES

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.] New York, May 10.—Good shortstops are just as scarce this year as ever. The few veterans who have been holding down shortstop positions in the big leagues for years are still doing it, but as they push out one by one the youngsters have a hard time filling their shoes. The season of 1918 finds several club trying out new players at shortstop, but no season would be normal if there were less than four new men getting the once over from anxious managers. The Cubs have a brilliant prospect in Charlie Haller, secured from the Portland club. He turned up the Coast league last season with his fielding, finishing the season with a percentage of .950. He hit .276, and he ranks as the best hitting shortstop who has come up to the big show in several years. Russell Mackey, who gained fame as the $12,000 beauty of the White Sox some moons ago, is getting another crack at a major league deal with the Cincinnati Reds. Mackey last season ranked as a sweet fielder, but his work with the blue-groen has generally been so weak that he couldn't make good. As a member of the "Porcine" club last season, Mackey hit .276 in the fielding with .967 and slammed the pill around at a .226 clip. Walter Gerber, who was taken on by the Los Angeles team last season, and who once had a tryout with the Pirates, amassed the same hitting figures in the American Association as Blackburn did in the International League. He was the big show from the Columbus club, and ranked as one of the leading infielders of the association for the past four or five years. Duran, the captain of the Holy Cross college nine last season, and Mack hope to make another Barry out of him.

FORMER PENN PLAYER GOES TO TEXAS LEAGUE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] St. Louis, May 10.—Clifton Heathcote, University of Pennsylvania outfielder, who came to the Philadelphia Nationals this season, after a brilliant exhibition both in the field and at the bat during the spring practice will undergo further training with Houston in the Texas league. While with the Cardinals at San Antonio, Heathcote was the star of the team. His several home runs won games and his fielding was declared excellent. Once pitted against major league competition, however,

It has been a long time since Detroit has had a real first baseman, but "Swifty" Drossen seems to be filling the bill to the complete satisfaction of everyone concerned. The Tiger scouts picked Drossen as the best first baseman in the minor leagues last season. He is very fast, a sensational fielder, and a smart batsman. Manager Jennings has placed him at the top of his hitting list. Drossen was tried by the Cards two years ago, but wasn't ready for major league company. Drossen played 133 games at first base for the St. Paul team of the American Association last year, and had a batting average of .291. He led the association in base running with fifty-five "thiefs," and promises to get away with a flattering number of steals in the American league this summer.

The Egyptians embalmed the dead ones; the majors send them to the bushes. The New Haven, Conn., fight officials who staged the fifteen-round bout between Lew Tendler of Philadelphia and Willie Jackson of New York recently lost considerable money on the show. The gross receipts amounted to only $6,328. The reason the officials had to dig down in their pockets to make good several hundred dollars was the fact that the fighters—each man $2,500. It is quite surprising that a bout of the magnitude of the Tendler-Jackson affair didn't play to a capacity business. Are we to say that the result affects the fans' attitude during the war?

George Carpenter, the famous European boxing champion, has been appointed instructor at the Ecole Militaire de Joinville-le-pont, one of the army physical culture schools near Paris. Carpenter has had a brilliant career in the army ever since the outbreak of the war and has distinguished himself in every branch of the service in which he has served. In the infantry, dispatch rider, and aviation. After eighteen months as a flight sergeant he came to be regarded as one of the most accomplished aviators in France, but a long illness has kept him unfit for fighting.

Golfers are always experimenting on some new club or ball and the latest contrivance is a midsize do-siegned "import backspin." The face of the club has two angles, but is not exactly concave. The effort is the same as if taking a fly place in the air and sending it down in a trifle. It is claimed that the face, by being bent in, gets more hold on the ball, thereby causing it to revolve. So far only one club has been made and the experiments have not progressed far enough to reach any definite conclusion.

Do you know that Urban Faber of the White Sox was accepted in the draft despite his fat feet? A Louisville scribe observes that Jack Mackey is regaining his old-time speed. This is interesting in that it shows that once upon a time Mack must have had some speed.

Fleider Jones makes the Browns wait them out. His team has averaged more than four bases on balls to the game this season. In a recent game Ray Demmitt drew that number of walks himself and in his other time at bat he got a sacrifice fly.

Joe Jackson has been put in Class 1-A by the draft board and isn't likely to drop out of the season with the White Sox; although he has been assured that he won't be called until late.

Letter of Sympathy. Fond du Lac, May 10.—Over 100 members of the 104th Co. of the 150th Machine Gun company have been named in the casualty lists sent from France and of this number five were dead. This fact has led to a letter of sympathy to the Fond du Lac County Council of Defense. Co. B was formerly Co. E of this city.

Wants to Change Name. Berlin, May 10.—Petitions asking the post office department to provide for an immediate change in the name of this city are in circulation and will be sent to Washington soon. Business men say that the present name, which savors too much of Germany is proving harmful to their interests. Some of the names suggested instead of Berlin are Badger, Burlin and Nas-coutin.

RATS IN ENGLAND DO HEAVY YEARLY DAMAGE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, April 10.—The yearly damage to food by rats in England alone, is estimated at $200,000,000, according to a cautionary notice just issued to farmers by a government committee. The latter urges a ruthless offensive against the rat. It says in part: "In your buildings, granaries and barns you have an underground enemy who destroys our food supplies almost as much as the submarine. The nation cannot afford to keep rats at a moment when every sack of wheat is urgently needed. In the rush work on the farm, rats have been neglected and have multiplied. They breed faster than any other vermin. The rat will breed when four months old and have from three to five litters a year. The average litter is ten, but as many as twenty-three have been found. But unless you are prepared to feed them, it is unneighborly act to keep them all. The moment you stink them of food they will swarm over to your neighbor's farm. "At a moderate estimate, the English countryside is feeding one per head of the total population of these islands, and ten rats will eat as much from what they spoil, as much grain as you and your wife consume. Save the English harvest of 1918 for yourselves and don't waste it on rats. "Who are we to do? Keep your grain protected and make the fullest use of traps, snares, ferrets and dogs. Burn owls are among our best friends. Close rat holes with concrete and glass. Organize rat hunts and encourage rat-catching on your farms by giving some small reward. Hunt your hedge-rows with dogs and ferrets. Get your neighbors to do the same. "We cannot afford to feed the rats. We cannot raise too much grain, in fact we can hardly hope, to have enough to feed ourselves."

Whitewater News

Whitewater, May 10.—Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Humphrey were host and hostess to the Monday club Wednesday evening, the meeting being held at the Congregational church. The topic was insurance, with papers by J. C. Cox and S. C. Fish. A set of dishes owned by the club was auctioned off and brought about forty dollars. Of this $7.50 was given to the fund for French orphans.

Word from Rev. L. R. Howard states that he has passed the necessary exams and has been sent to Princeton for instruction, expecting to go to France in a few days for the Y. M. C. A. army work. Supt. C. W. Rittenburg and family due to Milwaukee on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. George Melrose and Annette left yesterday for Waupaca to make their home with Rev. Jacobs. We regret that Mr. Melrose is still in very poor health. Word from Walter Fesmire to his mother here states that he is driving a supply truck somewhere in France, with Joe McMahon as assistant. The local Boy Scouts sold Liberty bonds to the extent of $4,200. Thane Blackman, Jr., sold $1,500; Donald Gershon $650 and Dean Linsley, $500. A very enjoyable party was given at the K. C. hall Wednesday evening for the nine new candidates that were taken into the order at Delavan last Sunday. The southern Wisconsin high school declamatory and oratorical contests will be held at the normal gymnasium this afternoon and evening. Mrs. T. M. Blackman left yesterday for Portage for a short visit.

MANY NEGRO TROOPS NOW AT CAMP CUSTER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Battle Creek, Mich., May 10.—Increased by 2,000 negro selective troops from southern cantonments, Camp Custer's proportion of negro soldiers has now assumed appreciable size. In addition to the colored troops, several thousand selectives from Michigan and Wisconsin have been received and assigned, almost entirely to the 160th Depot brigade, which has been depleted in recent weeks by transfers to other camps. One reason why the new men are being placed in this brigade, it was announced, is to prevent the possible spread of disease. It has been found that when a number of soldiers are brought in from other camps, they frequently prove carriers of disease, and it is to safeguard the health of the remainder of the cantonment that the new soldiers are placed in a distinct unit. According to an officer who recently has completed a tour of the community from which the negro soldiers who have just been received were selected, the negroes left Alabama with very high recommendations, having taken an active part in Liberty bond campaigns and in aiding in Red Cross work. Final Body in River. Wausau, Wis., May 10.—The body of George Bremer, a leading citizen, Merrill, former register of deeds in Lincoln county, was found in the Wisconsin river at Merrill. It is believed he tripped while crossing a dam the way home from a lodge meeting. Organize Guard Company. Grand Rapids, Wis., May 10.—The 44th company of the Wisconsin state guard went to Stevens Point to assist in the reorganization of the First Separate company of that city, which has been disorganized from various causes. ## UTTERS' CORNERS

Utter's Corners, May 9.—Dell Newberry has been working for Eugene Paynter since March 1st, was killed by a bull Tuesday evening. Newberry was alone in the barn yard when attacked. When he was rescued he was found at the upper bell. Little Florence Paynter went out to see why he did not come and found the bull tumbling him about. She called her father who hurried to his assistance. He was alive when Mr. Paynter reached him but died a few moments later. It was found on examination that his neck and one of his arms were broken. Other bruises on his body. He was removed to Smith & Son's undertaking parlor at Whitewater, to await word from his two sisters who live in Illinois. He was about sixty years old and the family lived east of Richmond a number of years ago.

Rev. H. A. Midall preached his farewell sermon here Sunday morning. He has accepted the call to the M. E. church at Evansville and will move there the latter part of the week.

Mrs. E. Thorne spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives in Whitewater.

Mrs. Byron and Miss Taylor, Roy Dunbar and family, and Miss Tillie Dunbar, who were called on friends here Sunday afternoon.

Charles Guderyon and family spent Sunday at Richard Guderyon's at Richmond.

John Shields and family spent Sunday at the R. Sherman home and assisted in celebrating the 75th birthday of C. H. Sherman.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers of Janesville, were Sunday guests of G. H. Roe and family.

Miss Edith Lewis of Whitewater, visited her mother, Mrs. Alward Monday and Sunday.

Christ the Witness

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—For this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth.—John, 15:18.

Amid the philosophies in the world there is one great lack, the note of certainty. This note of certainty can only be found when we turn to the testimony of Christ. He came into the world to bear witness to the truth. He is mentally competent, for he alone knows what is in man (Jno. 2:24). And he is morally competent for he alone of all the sons of man can look the world in the face and say, "Which of you convinceth me of sin." Among others there are four things concerning man to which he bears testimony.

1. The Worth of Man.—The commercialism of the day would almost make us think that man is to be little thought of when money is involved, but he says, "What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his life?" A man is worth more than the world and therefore a man is worth more than anything in the world. In answer to the question of John the Baptist he says: "The poor have the gospel preached to them." In answer to the question of his disciples he says: "Suffer the little children to come unto me." He had time not only for the rich and the powerful, but the poor and the weak were of infinite value to him. No other religious teacher ever taught like this. To him man was of such value that he was willing to lay down his life for one of them. Even the lost were to him of infinite worth for "The Son of Man is come to seek that which was lost." Lu. 19:10.

2. The Trouble With Man.—That there is something wrong is seen in the universal talk of improvement. What is wrong is the question. Against all the ideas advanced by man in answer to this question he says that the trouble is sin. In this all troubles are included.

(a) He says it is universal. "If ye then being evil know how to give good gifts to your children," Lu. 11:13. Even the ones who sometimes may be said to give good are evil. These were his own disciples and yet even they were evil.

(b) He says it is deep-seated. It is not on the outside where the trouble lies, but "out of the heart of man proceed" the evil things. It is not what is seen that is the trouble with men, but that which he has deep within his own heart. As Jeremiah puts it, "The heart of man is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked." Jer. 17:9.

(c) He says it is beyond repair. There are many who would relieve man by doing away with all that afflicts man on the outside, but he says: "Ye must be born again," if you would be free from the trouble. While man is of infinite worth he has an affliction called sin which is so universal and of such deep root that relief can only be found by becoming a new creation—by being "born again."

3. The Hope for Man.—He came to bring relief and he came to make it possible for man to be born again.

(a) For those in bondage he gives himself a ransom in such a way that man may find victory over his own deceiver and desperately wicked heart. He cancelled the sin when on the cross and now stands to break the power of the sin he cancelled.

(b) For those who are lost he is himself the way. "I am the way, the truth and the life," Jno. 14:6. Men here continually seeking for that which will satisfy their aspirations and never finding it until they find it in Christ Jesus.

(c) For those dying he is the remedy. Sin is a sickness fastening upon all men and fatal in its operation. All have sinned and come short of the glory of God. Jesus bears witness that the only relief is to be found in himself. Many expedients are being resorted to by which to be freed from sin, but they all fail until he is found. As it was in the days of the wilderness journey of the people of old, "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness even so must the Son of Man be lifted up that whosoever believeth on him might not perish but have everlasting life."

(d) For those dead he is the life. The wages of sin is death and death has come upon all men for that all have sinned. But his testimony is, "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on me though he were dead yet shall he live."

(e) For all he is the great hope sent from God to meet all of man's need.

4. The Danger of Man.—The Lord himself, this true witness, bears testimony to the truth that "He that believeth shall be saved and he that believeth not shall be damned." These are the words of the true witness.

At the court of our reason his case is won; at the court of our conscience his case is won, but what says our will? Can we afford to turn from his testimony concerning our common trouble, our hope and our danger?

CLOSING SESSIONS OF SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING THURSDAY

Splendid Addresses Mark Final Gathering of Sunday School Workers Held at Methodist Church.

Some splendid addresses marked the closing hours of the Sunday school convention held on Thursday at the Methodist church. Prof. D. N. Ingalls of Milton college, gave some interesting data on regular meetings for the officials and workers in the Sunday school. He considered these meetings quite as necessary as teachers' meetings for day schools, and were essential for growth in the school. Wm. F. Pearce of Shonore, handled the subject: "A. Vespertine Club to Efficiency," and said the thoughts he had to offer were those suggested by the trip up the mountain. To secure the most efficiency from teachers, they must have, first, aspiration; second, preparation; third, perspiration; fourth, continuation; fifth, inspiration; sixth, realization; and seventh, application.

F. H. Harris of Plattville, gave the closing address in which he gave a summing up of many of the fine points presented in the convention. He felt that the teacher represented the answer to the Sunday school problem, and that the knowledge of Bible and its translation into human character was their work.

Several reports were read at yesterday's session. That given by the president, C. A. Ryan, showed that there were sixty-four delegates from this county attended the state meeting last year. That fourteen schools in the county conformed to the International standard. That the county scored ten points on the standard. He also enumerated the amount of work done by him for the office, and closed by stating that the best thing in the work was a cradle roll in every Sunday school in the county. More efficient work in the districts and more leaders for the work.

The report of the secretary, L. A. Markham, showed that there were eight schools in the Janesville district, thirteen in the Milton, eight in Evansville, four in Clinton and eleven in Beloit, making forty-four in all. The reports of the county divisional superintendents were read. Elementary, Miss Bern Cook, Beloit; secondary, Miss Anna Hollister for girls, and A. Rodhouse for boys; Miss Mary Barker for adults and Prof. Ingalls for education. Miss Mary Barker also read a paper yesterday morning suggesting ways of reaching the parent. She recommended classes for the mothers which should get them into the Sunday school.

Mrs. S. Taylor outlined the methods used by their school in keeping the records by means of a card system. Also the plan by which their financial affairs were conducted in the local Baptist school. The budget for next year's expenses was figured out and plans made for meeting it.

Officers elected for the next year were as follows: President, C. A. Ryan; secretary, L. A. Markham; assistant secretary, Miss L. Bowerman; treasurer, M. O. Meyers; elementary work, Miss Bern Cook, Beloit; secondary, A. Rodhouse, with Miss Hollister as assistant; adult women, Miss Mary Barker; men, Charles Cummings; administrative, B. H. Gaudes, Evansville; educational, Prof. Ingalls, Milton.

There were present yesterday the following ministers: Rev. E. H. Beloit; Rev. Bennett Shopshire; Rev. Burr, Magnolia; Rev. Harris, Plattville; Rev. Van Horn, Milton Junction; Rev. Knutzen, Clinton; Rev. Erdick, Milton; Rev. Pearce, Shonore, beside many clergy of the local churches. There were sixty-two registered delegates to the convention from outside the county, beside the speakers and officers.

Recommendations brought in by Miss Mary Barker were votes of thanks for the hospitality of the Janesville people, and a suggestion that community training classes for teachers be held in towns and institutes in the larger cities, and that all schools were asked to try and make the international standard of work.

Fasting to Induce Dreams.
Fasting for the purpose of inducing dreams may be traced back to a very early period. And the foremost believers in dreams were our own picturesque Indians. History tells us of certain tribes who enjoined rigorous fasting among children from a very early age, during which time special attention was paid to their dreams.

NAMED BISHOP OF U. S. ARMY BY POPE

Bishop Patrick J. Hayes.

Bishop Patrick J. Hayes of New York has been named bishop of the American army at the front in France by Pope Benedict, and will leave soon for Europe. Although he has been given no high army rank, the war department welcomes his appointment and will provide him with all necessary credentials for his work.

GERMAN PRISONERS FOLLOW SOUP WAGON CLOSELY AND NOTHING ELSE MATTERS MUCH

The German prisoners taken by the French welcome captivity as long as the soup wagon is well filled. The photo, taken behind the lines in France, shows a score or more of the boches following the dispenser of liquid "eats" down a road which leads to one of the prison camp enclosures.

UNCLE SAM DRILLS TROOPS TO MAKE RIOTING UNPOPULAR

Demonstrating formation which has proven to be effective in handling street rioters. You have little incentive to become a rioter when you know that there is a special branch of the service, trained and ready to drive you to cover, the moment you become turbulent. The photo shows the most effective method of dealing with a street riot. The hollow square formation with machine gunners deployed in front of the square control the street while troopers with leveled rifles back them up. The soldiers on the side are covering the windows on both sides of the street. Military organizations all over the country will be specially drilled for this kind of work, not because it seems necessary, but just to be ready for eventualities.
